

Call for Papers for the Master Colloquium in Conjunction with the 26. International Wood Construction Conference in Innsbruck

(Former International Holzbau-Forum IHF in Garmisch)

<https://www.forum-holzbau.com/>

Call for Papers

The International Holzbau-Forum, invites master students to present and discuss their nearly completed or recently submitted thesis work before an internationally renowned audience of the wood construction industry.

The colloquium is organized by Bern University of Applied Sciences, Biel (BFH) and Rosenheim Technical University of Applied Sciences (TH Ro) during the International Holzbau-Forum, and will take place 2 - 4 December 2020 in Innsbruck, Austria.

Interested master students working on topics related to the wood construction industry are requested to submit an abstract (max. 1 page) in English, which must include their name, the name of the university, the name of the supervising professor, and the date of submission of the thesis. Please send the abstract electronically in PDF format by 25 June 2020 to mwt.ahb@bfh.ch.

Submissions will be reviewed by a scientific committee from BFH and TH Ro. The chosen master students will be informed by the end of August and will be asked to submit a full paper (max. 6 pages) in English as a PDF by 1 November 2020 to the above email address. The papers will be published in the conference proceedings.

The selected candidates will present at the colloquium in front of an international audience of the wood construction industry as well as professors and students of the field.

One author per paper will receive free admission to the conference as well as free accommodations arranged by the organizer.

Important Dates

- 25 June 2020 Abstract Submission (max. 1 page)
- 31 August 2020 Acceptance Notification, who will present at the colloquium
- 1 November 2020 Submission of full paper (max. 6 pages)
- 2 - 4 December 2020 Master Colloquium